ONGELINE.

New York, Sept. 24.—Only the flash from a polished revolver! But the thing that happened after that in the tiled barber shop of the Waldorf-Astoria would have filled a book.

He was a tall and angular person from the West who started the procession, and he had been in fitful slumber in chair No. 1 while Giuseppe was bestowing the massage refreshing, and the beautiful Ongeline, with the sunset glow nimbus on her head, was giving a muffled moonlight effect to his hitherto unburnished nails.

"Say, pard, where's my cravat stick?" said the stranger. "I had a diamond shamrock pin in my tie when I came in here and I don't see it now. Unless you produce it there will be trouble."

"Signor, I have seen no pin," persisted Giuseppe.

"Don't talk to me," the stranger said, and with that he drew a revolver of ponderous size and swung it pendulum-like where the barber could see it well.

"Run, girl! It's a gun!" cried Ongeline as she chased around the end of a table and smashed the rose water bowl on the floor.

There was a rain of brilliant and a riot among the razor strops as eight barbers crowded out of the place in the wake of Charlie and Miriam and the sadly distraught Ongeline.

A traffic policeman rushed in and took the gunbearer into custody, but the atmosphere was so disturbed that the two regular customers went with out their face massage and a bald headed man said he would come in every day and be sure of having his hair properly raised.

The prisoner announced himself as Robert Bruce Gordon and declared that he was a government detective. He had in his possession a proclamation directed to a morning newspaper in which he lamented the increase in crime.

Later at Police Headquarters the prisoner said that he was not a detective, but a hardware merchant. He declared that his partner was stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, but this the management denied. Gordon said he had never been without a "gun" for twenty years, and on this blithe confession he was locked up on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

STODDARD MILLINERY CO.FOURTH ANNUAL EXHIBIT SUR-PASSES ALL OF ITS PRE-DECESSORS.

This, the fourth season of the Stoddard Millinery Co., 133 Fairfield avenue, is in many respects their best display. Since their first opening the dependable character of materials employed has been self evident. The workmanship of superior quality and the style unquestionable to the eye owe their success. The generous patronage of those who seek the refined and fitting in fashion rather than the showy and cheap is the best evidence of the real merit of their goods. For the present exhibit the store is made more than usually attractive by a decoration of Boston and lace ferns. The models shown are each a study in art. The colors of the richest and choicest to be found this season embrace the newest shades of greens, browns, blues and rose, also rayon and passifera shades. The suit hats are much favored, but black and black and black and white are shown in elegant styles. Old gold and old silver are handsome and in good taste. The exhibit continues until Oct. 1st. You are cordially invited to call at your convenience.

TAMMANY REJOICES
OVER NOMINATION*Tiger Forces See Success for Their Ticket With Bannard Republican
Standard Bearer for Mayor.

(Special from United Press.)

New York, Sept. 24.—There is rejoicing at Tammany Hall to-day over the result of the Republican city convention which named Otto T. Bannard as the party candidate for Mayor. Tammany believes that this presages success for its own ticket in that the Committee of 100 which today the Committee of 100 which has been debating fusion in New York over since last June, will name a complete city and borough ticket headed by former United States District Attorney Stimson and ignore the Republicans. Tammany's rejoicing may be premature, however, as friends of Bannard declare that unless he sees a chance for a successful fight, he will not do it. He needs the non-partisan endorsement of the Committee of 100 as a candidate. So soon as it was certain that he would be the Republican candidate, Mr. Bannard left town and will stay a week, "thinking it all over."

But the failure of the fusion movement so far as the Republicans are concerned has stirred up one of the liveliest scandals of late years in New York politics. It is openly asserted by members of the committee of 100 that the Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff prevented fusion in order to keep a promise made last December. They allege that when the Tammany and Republican Democratic Congressmen supported Speaker Cannon in his fight over the rules they did so on the assumption that Woodruff would prevent fusion in the District.

Tammany cares for little but the control of the city government, these men assert, and was willing to make a deal with the Republicans to make a candidate. So soon as it was certain that he would be the Republican candidate, Mr. Bannard left town and will stay a week, "thinking it all over."

Some of these men are taking comfort out of the Republican nomination while they claim it is such a make it possible for Tammany to turn Gaynor down and elect one of the Tiger's own strip. This, however, is denied by several authorities close to the wigwag who insist that Murphy is anxious to pose as the regenerator of the party in the state and will nominate and elect Gaynor so that a year from now he can offer him to the stage Democracy as a candidate for Governor who would have a good chance of winning.

In an interview last night Patrick H. McCarron announced that he was for Gaynor and, inasmuch as the Brooklyn jurist is already in the field as an independent candidate, the feeling here is that his nomination is well nigh assured at the hands of Tammany.

INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE

Waterbury, Sept. 24.—The strange mental condition of Sophie Kritchman, the Union City music teacher, who, with Joe Mitchell of Brooklyn, is charged with the murder of Bronslon Kulvinskis last Friday, and who was indicted for murder in the first degree by the grand jury yesterday, is attracting much attention among physicians. On account of the girl's indifference and her utter disregard for the serious plight she is in, it is believed that in her present state she fails to realize that she is held in part responsible for the brutal killing. The defense will be insanity of course. The woman's present attitude is cheerful, a source of strength.

Those who have seen Sophie say that she is not clever enough to act the part of indifference. She smiles and laughs often, and she seems to be about as happy as a child. She is not at all nervous, and her attitude is cheerful, a source of strength.

Among those who visited her yesterday was Dr. Patrick Cassidy, a well-known physician of Norwich, Conn. He is the only physician who has visited the girl in her cell and have expressed much surprise at the unusual mental attitude of Sophie.

She has a lock of hair on her neck in which she carries a miniature picture of Mitchell of whom she seems very fond. She asked one of her visitors yesterday if she didn't think he was a fine looking fellow. She also volunteered a bit of advice to two of the girls who looked at her and said as they were leaving: "Good-bye, girls, beware of the company of bad men."

The girl heard that she was to be brought before the grand jury and arrayed herself in plain white linen dress. She dressed her hair carefully and put on a few trinkets and pieces of jewelry. Sophie was deeply disappointed when they did not take her to the Court House yesterday. She was up bright and early this morning and again wore her white dress. A pretty straw hat with red ribbon flowers and a short black jacket completed her dress, and at 8 o'clock the police took the girl and Mitchell from the station to the Court House.

E. H. DILLON & CO.THREE CORPORALS
ARE DISCHARGED*MERIDEN SOLDIERS RIDE IN PULLMAN COACHES AND LODGE IN EXPENSIVE HOTELS DURING BAY STATE WAR GAME.

Meriden, Sept. 23.—Dumas' literary creations, "The Three Musketeers," could be given cards and spades in the field of military adventures by three gay corporals of Company I, who are charged with leading a "plush cushioned" existence in the war along the Massachusetts coast, last August.

When the Company I boys were given their camp pay last week, Captain George E. Frouman told them that unless for service they shined their uniforms during the war and he had requested them to the ranks and recommended their discharge to the Adjutant General.

These discharges have been received from the Hartford office which supports the captain's request and the following privates are dropped from the company rolls. Corporals Nokeski, F. Patz and Dooley.

According to the more dutiful members of the company, the three non-coms had all the luxuries of a military campaign without any of its inconveniences. While their comrades were sleeping in dog tents, the corporals were occupying mahogany suites in hotels at $4 per, and almost suffocated in the languid depths of soft feather beds. And worse still, while the foot-sore fighters were wading through country roads knee deep with mud or sweating in the noonday sun on the march, the three humorists were riding to the next battle front aboard Pullman smokers.

Regard for the long suffering campaigners forbids mention of how the gentlemen soldiers fought the luscious hotel and restaurant victuals.
